

1. Why are there war graves and memorials in Crete?

In May 1941, the Commonwealth force in Crete was organised to defend three airfields at Iraklion, Rethymnon and Maleme, and Suda Bay and the port of Chania. The Germans launched their attack on 20 May with airborne troops. The airfield at Maleme was quickly captured and used for landing German reinforcements. On 23 May, the remainder of the Maleme position had to be given up and its defenders fell back to Chania. On 26 May, the Allied line west of Chania was broken. Suda Bay became indefensible and the troops from these two positions, with the remainder of the Maleme garrison, withdrew across the island to Sfakion, where many of them were evacuated by sea on the nights of the 28 - 31 May. Orders for the Rethymnon garrison to fight its way southward for evacuation did not arrive, and it was overwhelmed on 31 May.

Of the total Commonwealth land force of 32,000 men, 18,000 were evacuated, 12,000 were taken prisoner and 2,000 were killed. The site of Suda Bay War Cemetery was chosen after the war and graves were moved there by 21st and 22nd Australian War Graves Units from the four burial grounds that had been established by the German occupying forces at Chania, Iraklion, Rethymnon and Galata, and from isolated sites and civilian cemeteries.

Heraklion Cemetery

The British Military plot contains the graves of 200 British sailors and soldiers who died protecting Crete between 1897 and 1909. They are commemorated by name on a central memorial. There are no First or Second War graves in this site. The plot is maintained by the CWGC on behalf of the British Government.

4. Discover more about the service of those buried at Suda Bay War Cemetery

4.1 Each headstone in the cemetery tells a different story.

As you explore the cemetery see what you can learn from the headstones. See if you can discover the following;

1. Who is the youngest person you can find?
2. Who is the oldest person you can find?
3. How many different countries did they come from, based on the information you can discover on the headstones?

4.3 As you explore the cemetery, look at the different badges on the headstones. These will give you a clue as to the role the person had and maybe where they came from. As you find each badge, write down the name of the person who served with that unit in the box next to the badge.

4.2 There is just one headstone with this badge on. Can you find it in Plot XI? What did they do?
