

1. Why are there war graves in Nairobi?

During the First World War (1914-1918) Nairobi was the headquarters of the King's African Rifles and became the main hospital centre for the fighting which took place in East Africa. Cemeteries were used to bury those who had died of wounds, injury or illness while in military service.

During the Second World War (1939-45), Nairobi was the main base for the East African Force. It was also a hospital centre with two military hospitals treating those from the East African Force. Today, there are war graves from both world wars in cemeteries across Nairobi.

4. Discover more about the service of those buried at Kariokor Cemetery

4.1 Each headstone in the cemetery tells a different story.

As you explore the cemetery, look at the different badges on the headstones.

These will give you a clue as to the role the soldier had in the army and maybe where they came from.

As you find each badge, write down the name of the soldier who served with that unit in the box next to the badge.

4.2 There is just one headstone which has this badge engraved on. It is the East African Armoured Corps. Who wore the rhino cap badge?

The Royal West African Frontier Force was an infantry unit which recruited in Gambia, Ghana, Nigeria and Sierra Leone.

The East African Engineers were responsible for specialist building, engineering and maintenance tasks.

The East African Army Medical Corps provided medical support to the armies in East Africa.

The King's African Rifles was an infantry unit. It recruited in Kenya, Malawi, Somalia, Tanzania and Uganda.

The Northern Rhodesia Regiment was recruited in Zambia. They fought in Somalia, the Middle East and Burma.

The East African Military Labour Force provided the army with manual labourers.
